A JUBILEE FOR SPIRITUALISM.

Sunday, December 17, 1893.

The board of trustees of the National Spiritualist Association at the first official meeting on November 1st, successfully carried into effect the organization so auspiciously begun in Chicago in September. As their first official act the members of the board appointed Sunday, December 17th, 1893, as a day for a NATIONAL SPIRITUAL JUBILEE, to commemorate the inauguration of the united efforts of the Spiritualists of the

It is their desire, by the exercises of that day to awaken a deep and profound interest in the minds of all Spiritualists in the welfare of the National Association, and at the same time provide for the first donation for its treasury. To that end the board suggests the following program for the day, to be observed by each and every society in the United States:

MORNING.

10 30-Song service.

II-An address of five minutes by the oldest Spiritualist in the society.

11 5-Response five minutes by one of the children of the society.

II 10-An address of ten minutes by the president or some other officer of the society on the publication of the proceedings of the recent National Convention of Spiritualists in Chicago This address should be followed by an earnest appeal for pledges by subscription or cash for this important work, emphasizing the fact that no copy is to cost more than twenty five cents and that only a limited number will be printed 11 30-Exercises by the children, consisting of songs, recitations, readings, etc.

12 30,-An appeal for subscriptions or cash donations for the benefit of the National Association; also for books, pamphlets, or magazines of interest for the National Spiritual Library.

I p. m .- Dinner or lunch, to be followed by toasts and responses.

Toast No. 1-The National Association.

The responses to this toast should not exceed ten minutes in length, and should be written or prepared with much care, as they are to be sent to the National Association for use and suggestion with the privilege of publication, wholly or inpart, in the torthcoming book on the exercises of the day.

A REPLY TO MS. S. H. TEBRY.

I have read copies of your journal bearing the dates of November (5.h and 25 h, which contain a rather lengthy criticism of some of my articles which had been printed in the American Pin hi cal Server, and I deem it needful to respond, because the suther, Mr Terry, has evidently mistaken the import of some of the things I said, and hes a very mistaken view, in my opinion, o what the subject matter of physics is. To go over all he says would take too long and perhapnot be interesting to many for whom his criticism was intended, so I will content myself at present with pointing out where he has fulled to touch the more important points in my former articles. He starts by calling some of my statements "strange misstatements," and cites as an example the following "Reports of such phenomens have never come from any man who understands the relations of phenomena " He then cites Prof. Cones, Dr. Hare, and Prof Judger, of Germany, as disproving my assertion, and says "they are enough." Let us see. Prof. Coues has achieved eminence as a biologist, and nothing abould de tract from his ability in that line of work, but it is fair to state in this connection that in the field of physics he is utterly unknown. He has attempted something in this line, and it is sufficient Terry says is beside the point. He offirms, too, to say that not only has his work no standing that "seeds will not germinate in the light" among physicists, but he has not persuaded his This may be flatly contradicted. It makes no brother biologists that his explanations explain difference, except to favor more rapid growth. In other words, he has given no evidence to others that he is competent to explain complex phenomena As for Dr. Hare there is no evidence that he explained anything His name in science is only associated with a particular form of galvanic cell which he devised, but which has not been used for fifty years, and for a few interest ing electrical experiments. Whatever else be did he never explained snything as, say, Faraday explained electrical and chemical phenomena, and he can not be used as a witness who under stands "the relations of physical science," for these relations were not discovered until after his day No one knew of them in Dr. Hare's day. It is not impuguing his ability in the least to say he did not understand the relations of phenomena Prof. Za 'luer a year or two before he died became mentally unsound His behavior at home and his letters to others make it painfully apparent that he was at that time utterly incompetent to report on any scientific matter. It was at this time he met Slade, and was persuaded that what he had seen was to be explained on the assumption of the fourth dimension of space. Neither of these named persons then belong in the cata gory of competent persons who understand the relations of physical phenomens. To save fur ther discussion on this point by the addition of further names of persons who were popu larly supposed to be, as competent as any to pass judgment on questions as to the relations of physical phenomena, it will be well for one so disposed to inquire whether or not the so-called competent person be an astronomer, a biologist, a geologist, a theologian, a banker, or a physicist. A person may be eminent in any of these fields, but if there were a compli cated physical phenomenon to be explained, or even investigated, there is but one of them before whom it would properly come. Even a skillful juggler would not necessarily be competent to investigate and report upon it if it involved complicated relations such as those, say, between heat, electricity, and energy.

Mr. Terry, then, considers that there must be many thousands of persons who have studied physics who are engineers, chemists, astronomers, etc., to whom one might go for an explanation of any complicated phenomenon. This is about the same as saying that if a person be skilled in some applied science he is competent to explain be verified at any time when one will take the complex physical phenomens. Any one may satisfy himself very quickly about this if he will go, say to an engineer, and ask him to please ex plain to you the reactions by which, say glucose, is made artificially; or to a chemist and get him to explain wby the perfect steam engine can never yield more than about thirty per cent. of the energy spent; or to a biologist to explain how the energy of food is metamorphosed in plants and animals. Suppose each one should be found competent to explain what was asked, is it not plain that they each for the time turned physicists? In other words, every kind of a phenomenon is in the last analysis a physical phenomenon, and such sciences as biology and chemistry are fast being brought to a physical basis, for the laws of energy have been found to hold true for molecules and atoms as well as for larger masses, and no exceptions have so far been found. Instead of there being so large a number of such competent persons in this field FROM A VETERAN SPIRITUALIST. as Mr. Terry supposes, another writer who had looked into the matter some did not find a dozen dilemma as Mr. Terry supposes. A man may be a very competent master in some science, and yet | duce as valuable testimony in favor of Spiritual-If Mr. Terry does not think this to be true he can source : ascertain readily by a little experimentation among his friends, and I commend the attempt the great questions before which, as Wallace to him.

After this follows an account of various physical phenomena which Mr. Terry says he has witnessed, such as moving object, lights, sounds, slatewriting, and so on, with statements which imply that what was seen was not explainable on the sitting, when a zealous opposer. She carried her basis of such physical and scientific knowledge as we at present possess. It will be needful, therefore, and who had no possible clew to her identity. see how competent the observer was to enable Without permitting the slates to leave her hands him to know what was possible on such a basis, and what grasp he has of modern science to a pertinent communication promising that 'Bauqualify him to make such assertious of what is croft shall yet correct the error, he had made in and what is not possible or probable. One who her former husband's (Grayson's) biography.' vation of energy would not be true. It serves, when visiting the city cariosity induced him to however, to show that Mr Terry is not to be call upon a medium to whom he was wholly un ability to instruct in explaining phenomena-of or pen, or any clew by which he could be identicourse, on the assumption that what is called the fied. conservation of energy be true. If that be disputed by any use it must be settled before there can be any proper basis for argument one way or no glad you have come , . . I want you to get my if it had not been proved, quantitatively. So the milk on her new appen." there can be no dispute about 1 any more than energy there is in fuel and the products of com bastion. If Mr. Terry has any good reason for rause it has been and can be verified anywhere by anyone who will go to the pains to do the proper work. If it be true, of course all Mr.

There is but one further point that needs at ention now, that is the admission that the socalled spirit manifestations are governed by natural laws. If that be so who are the persons to discover the laws of such natural physical phenomena? Those who do not know what natural laws are already known and what is to be expected from their relations? That could only be expected on the supposition that such aws as we do know of are out of relations with the new laws that are to be discovered. So far all the laws known are physical, and they all are related to each other in definite and mechanical ways. There is no doubt but there are many laws yet to be discovered, and I think none are more free to admit so much than those who have done the work needed for the discovery of those already known, but it is a very different thing to believe and expect that such laws as are hereafter to be discovered will be such as to render nuga ory in the slightest degree those already known and enable those who are unacquainted with now known laws to dictate how phenomena are to be explained or to dispense with what are known now. If such phenomena as table-moving, levitation, and so on take place in the way affirmed by Mr. Terry it does not follow at all that one has to throw overboard his present knowledge of physics in order to account for them.

I am very willing to acknowledge that very much has been written in spiritualistic literature that I have never read, still my ignorance may not be as dense as Mr. Terry may think it to be Forty years ago there were rappings and table tippings, and so on where I was in the parties, and since then I have not been quite blind or deaf or disinterested in the matter. Whether I know much or little about the subject is not of so much importance as that the best and surest knowledge that we have shall not be travested and denied by men who have not been to the pains to acquaint themselves with it. So far as I am personally concerned I am afraid of no kind of a possible discovery or phenomena. I welcome everything, only I want every proposition made as being true to be well and properly vouched for, not on the dictum of any man-no science has any of its propositions based upon the assertions of any man or any number of men-but because like every other scientific proposition it can necessary trouble to do the work.

If one has a quarrel with physical science as it exists to-day his proper course is to set to work to point out its short comings, to show, for instance, under what circumstances the law of gravi tation, or the laws of chemistry, or of molecular action, of electricity or heat, or any other, are not operative, or operate in a different way from the way assumed. No amount of personal controversy can begin to touch this fundamental work. If one will do this successfully he will not need to attack anybody. If the Philistine scientists are in the house when Samson pulls down its pillars they may perish with the structure whatever be their names, but it may be predicted in a cautious way that whoever succeeds in this will. like Samson, perish in the debris!

A TEACHER IN TWO CAPACITIES.

The following is from the vice-principal of public school : "We have worked for ten years for the cause of Spiritualism without remuneration. doing so because we wanted truth and could not help ourselves. Often unwilling, many times fearful, and always skeptical of our own ability. In fear and trembling we have moved on, or rather been carried along, occasionally dropping a fact among the 'flesh pots." Often we have been routed out of favorite corners of dogmatic beliefs, until we stand stripped of the rags of theological superstition, and are finally clothed in the garments of spiritual facts; which facts are termed by the skeptical thought-transference, mind-reading, etc., until the soul of a believer sinks at the contemplation of the unwillingness to believe phenomena with which their Bible teems. Miss Abby Judson, that able instrument, advocates the giving of experiences to the public, and in concurrence with her thought we relate the following:

A few evenings ago, two ladies, both strangers, called. Being wearled after a hard day's labor we began to excuse ourself. However, the business was not altogether in our hands, for we drifted unconsciously into clairvoyance, and gave a long reading to the entire satisfaction of the sitters, which revived and refreshed us, as the conditions were highly elevating. Her companion then exclaimed: "It is wonderful, please give me something."

"You," we said, "are going to be scolded Frank stands by you; he passed out young, of consumption, and although he never professed religion, was good. You feared he was suffering in the orthodox hell." No, he says, "the woman who can describe me can tell you I'm released and relieved. You, however, are earthly and cherish malice to your sister Ella. Root out all evil and let love abide in your heart, or you will never know the nature of peace."

The spirit was very earnest, and the woman finally burst into tears and exclaimed: "Ob, it must be he, for I've not spoken to my sister Ella for a year."

This soul, according to Methodist parlance was "convicted of sin," and taught the lesson of Church has. In fact, while it probes the soul it impresses the teaching by phenomens, and proves to the thinking mind that the age o' faith is passing away, and the grander period of fact is upon us. MARTHA S. #### Spirit Photography.

To the Editor of the LIGHT OF TRUTH.] Realizing that a new "light of truth" has dawned upon me and many others in our city. (Boston) I would call your attention and that of your many readers to a newly developed medium for the the phase of spirit photography, This young man is R. L. Green, late of Allegbeny City, Pa. I learn that while at the Onset Bay Camp-Meeting the past Summer Mr. Green had a sitting with Mr. F. N. Foster, the well known spirit photographer. At that sitting the guides of Mr. Foster informed Mr. Green that he possessed the power of obtaining spirit faces. Whereupon Mr. Green immediately engaged a series of sittings for development, and to day this young man is meeting with marked success. This is a phase of mediumship I read but little about, and I deem it one of the grandest, and a phase the skeptics and scientists are interested in.

The Boston Globe of a late issue gives as account of a test seance that has caused widespread attention among its readers. Mr. Green s sincere and willing to give the investigator an opportunity to know the truth of his medium-ship. In conclusion I would say, the sittings I have had with Mr Green were very satisfactory. On one occasion I brought my own marked plates, placed them in the camera, and retained possession of them during the entire sitting, took them away and had them developed by a third party and found faces on the plate other than my own, I recognized one of the faces as that of my son. Psychic Force a Power of Faith.

Have we saything in these days skin to the paychic force exercised by Jesus, of Necesteth, on the Sea of Galilee, above referred to?

I present the following scrap of history for the consideration of the thoughtful: Rarly in the month of March, 1973 I took passage on board of a sailing vessel in New York harbor, bound for a South American port, in latitude seventy hie degrees south.

The voyage was not unpleasant till we had reached latitude twenty-six degrees south There were three families on board with erea children, whose playful antica served to relieve the tedium of the long voyage, which lasted seventy three days. In said istitude, twenty-six degrees south, we encoun tered one of those fearful storms, known to the Spanish population on the coast as a Pampero, they presented themselves in the collection. The gale came from the southwest-never in fi.ful gusts, but steadily increasing in force till its velocity had reached the rate of one hundred miles it to initiate new carriers, when old ones were per hour. The sails had all been blown from the ropes, and the only successful effort to replace them was rigging a "storm spanker" with four thicknesses of cauvas, which proved effective in keeping her head to the wind. We were entering on the fourth day of the gale, and all on board, except the captain, seemed to be discouraged. The breakers came down on deck every few moments with fearful force, that made her timbers tremble in every fibre.

My room was a large one and well lighted, having a lamp in the partition, which also lighted the adjoining room. I had succeeded in getting into my berth, with my face to the wall-fully determined not to get out of it when the ship went down. I had been thinking of my son, Henry, who was killed at the battle of Chancellorville, when by some impulse I turned in my berth, and there, in the middle of the room, was Henry, standing in his uniform of blue, but no hear her coming down stairs. cap on his head. He raised his right hand to his forehead (where there was a large scar from a wound received when a child), evidently for the purpose of identifying himself. I said, "Why. Henry, I am glad to see you; you have come to help us." II : answered, "We will do the best we can; I am not much of a navigator, but I have brought along a young friend who is, and we will do all we can for you." I said, "Waere is your friend?" He answered: "He is at the wheel." arose out of my berth at ouce, but Henry was gone. Within two minutes Mr. Spear, a passenger, came into my room to look at my barome ter. He fairly dauced with glee; the mercury had risen two points within fifteen minutes, and was now above twenty seven degress.

The morning broke with a brig t, shining sun Sorrow endured for three nights, but joy came in the morning" Our course was changed. The sea was still rough, but gave evidence of resuming its peaceful habits. We had been driven six hundred miles out of our course, which could not well have happened on the Sea of Galilee.

We passed over forty vessels the first day after the gale, not one of which escaped serious damage to both spars and rigging. We had been driven nearer to the African coast than we were to the American coast when the storm com menced.

AMONG THE SPIRITS.

Mr. Beals E. Litchfield, of Ellicottsville, N. Y. has written his autobiography in which he relates his forty years intercourse with the denizens of spirational poems received by him during that wit Talmage. There are doubtless many subforgiveness. This is about as good a way of time. The work is interesting all through, and scribers reading the paper now who did not wresting the brands from the burning" as the the poems are exceptionally pure and breathe a fervency that is touching.

The best commendation we can give the book is to take an extract for the benefit of our readers, who can then judge the rest by the same. Fol lowing is a bit of Mr. Litchfield's experiences, closing with a verse from the same book, suitable to the extract:

"On one occasion Mrs. Litchfield and I went to Rochester for a stay of two or three days. Two evenings after we attended a materalizing When that letter was published in the LIGHT OF seance of Mrs. Markee's. The medium and all in the seance-room were entire strangers to us. Several of our spirit friends materialized, walked out of the cabinet, told us their names, and we recognized them unmistakably. So well satisfied were we of the genuineness of the manifestations that we made arrangements with the medium to visit us at our home in Ellicottsville for the purpose of holding seances.

"A month later the medium was with us. She held five seances, and so satisfactory were the manifestations, that thirteen of us engaged her to hold two more. In these the manifestations were the most remarkable I had ever witnessed During the seven seances, fif y five spirits materialized, all 'uly recognized. We conversed with our father, mother, and daughter. We also saw and conversed with others whom we recognized. At most of the seances was a committee of ladies to search the medium before entering the cabinet; and she always entered the cabinet dressed altogether in dark clothing, not even taking a white handkerchief with her. In a few minutes the controlling spirit, dressed entirely in white, would walk out and speak freely with anyone, and often sit on the lap of some one. At each seance this bright spirit would make a piece of lace so large that when it was placed on her head it would drag upon the floor all around her. We have seen her make this lace on other occas- try. ## Do Spirits Aid Materially ?

In a former journalistic career, it happened that our collector took sick, and I had to take his place. With a large package of subscription bills in my hand, I started off to gather the medium most needed in all printing offices. I did. not seek our customers according to the bills as book, but as I knew these customers according to the carrier's route, having frequently to go over exchanged for new ones on account of tardiness.

Among our customers was an old widow-lady, who answered the bell in person. Having told her my mission, she very affably asked me to walk into the parlor and take a seat, while she would go up stairs and get me the money. After taking a seat I began to look for the bill, intending to sign it and have it ready for her on her return. But to my horror there was none, and I did not know the lady's name-at least could not remember it without seeing it on the bill, knowing I would recognize it the moment my eye lit on it, for it was an odd or peculiar name.

I hated to acknowledge my ignorance of a customer's name, and ask her so I could make out a bill-the dates of subscription being familar to me, as they all ran for six months from a certain time. I was thus in a quandary and began to sweat in despair, expecting every moment to

I made out the bill, all but the name, trusting it would occur to me momentarily. But it did not, and would not, all I could do to recall it. Suddenly it occurred to me to ask my spirit guide if he could not by some ways or means get that name for me I being at that time an automatic writer.

While putting the question I took my pencil between thumb and forefingers, suspended my arm, and allowed the point of the pencil to rest on the surface of the black marble top table at which I was sitting-my usual mode of receiving words and sent nees from the beyond

My hand began to move, first making several scrawls, then a capital letter followed by three others. It was half the name I wanted. The rest I now remembered. It was very timely too, for I had hardly affixed her name to the bill and receipted it, than the old lady entered the room and laid the amount of her subscription on the table before me.

I had a narrow escape from an ugly case of embarrassment, and was truly thankful for .the timely aid. My guide later told me that the husband of the widow, seeing my despair, took control of my hand, and wrote his name in answer to my appeal.

Shortly afterward I met with a similar experience, which is also unique in itself, but which I will reserve for another article.

Talmage's Hundred Dollars.

To the Editor of the LIGHT OF TRUTH !

One month ago this paper contained a very interesting letter from Moses Hull to Rev. T. Deto pay one hundred dollars to any Inudel who had read the Bible through twice in regular Moses Hull in a kind friendly letter tells Rev. Talmage that he has read the Bible through in regular course twenty three times, five of the readings having been since such men as Dr. Talmage have been calling him an Infidel, and claims the right to the one hundred dollars. TRUTH the question was asked in the headline over the letter, "Is Dr. Talmage Sincere?" This is a very interesting and important question at the present time.

We have our own private opinions respecting the sincerity of the man when he made that promise in public, but the fairest way at the present time, it seems to me, is to not judge the man hastily but let him decide the case by his own conduct. If he considers his reputation for truthfulness to not be worth a hundred dollars he will perhaps risk meeting the fate of Annanias and Sapphira and refuse to keep his word. In that case one would suppose that Moses Hull might obtain a decision in court as to whether a minister of the gospel had any more right to refuse to comply with his own publicly pledged word in financial matters than Infideis and common, honest, and truthful people have. I would suggest to Brother Talmage that it is barely possible that Moses might be induced to accept a compromise and give a receipt in full for twentyfive cents on the dollar. I am sure Moses Hull is a lover of justice and feels merciful toward VALENTINE NICHOLSON.

REPORT OF SEANCE.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUES -[E, F C.] Is it within the knowledge of the controls at the Free Circle that wise spirits, who are giving special attention to economic questions, see that the use of gold and silver as money is the great means by which a "Money Power" is made possible, and by which, through the cunning manipulation of money, the pro ducers of wealth are impoverished by having the wealth they produce conveyed to the hands of the few; and is it the purpose of these spirits to destroy the use of these metals as money, it be ing the only way to break this great "Power" and give to the masses the equities that of right belong to them?

ANS .- Our information as to the aims in view of our national controlling spirits, is much the same as yours concerning the aims of the cabinet of the United States. In the first place we must await its publicity, and then try it on, as it were -seeing how much of it we can comprehend, digest, and formulate for others' benefit. And if their plans are not yet defined or kept impact to give them more influence or force, we are as wise as before. But we catch glimpses of light occasionally through mental telegraphy, or thought-waves coming from these centres that awakens inferences which may not be welcome to you. But if you simply regard everything that the higher forces do as a needed contingency, you might look things more calmly in the face. But it is not what they want you to do. They desire that you should continue the battle, however hopeless for you. But its effects remain in the air, as it were, for your successors. All mental efforts take the form of a law in spirit first, then materialize. Great and concentrated wealth was originally needed in this country to build a foundation for the people's good in the future You can not as yet accomplish, communistically, what you can individually in carrying out great plans. The people are not yet sufficiently united in mind to carry out what spirits can accomplish through one shrewd brain of a Gould pattern, though it may prove a selfish one in the end. But this is for the individual to settle later. Wealth was needed in this country to protect it from foreign invasions and annihilation. The people caught the idea from the spirit world, but the plans how to attain it settled in the minds of the few. Aid was naturally lent them by the spirit world. Now another edict has been sent forth. The people have caught the idea, but it needs a centralizing point, or a number of them, to find terial, the upper world is like air to the inhabproper outlet and force to materialize So far as the destruction of the metals are concerned, we see no motive. But we do see a better plan for lower crust-the earth plane-get occasional exchange-an improvement on the present method. QUES -[Joseph Carr, Boston] That shrewd and andscious organization, the Catholic Church, has permanently located Mgr. Satolli as papal ablegate to settle all disputes and decrees aris ing in sald Church. He is a resident of this country. May this not be a policy, when the next Pope is appointed, to seat him in the chair, instead of a man in Rome?

Ans -It is hardly necessary to bring that question here. Every mortal who can read the signs of the times can answer that for himself in the affirmative. But the sooner that policy is carried out the sooner the world will be freed from the still prevailing influence of the Catholic power. It is the word Rome which lends a charm to the papacy. Old associations, centralized spirit power, and a complementary magnetic or hypnotic influence aid in upholding the old structure. But let that combination be once torn asunder, and ere long the papal star will be in the descendent. Nothing makes Catholicism stronger than fanatical opposition. I'cople who imagine that they can not fight an enemy without showing animosity are the best friends that enemy have. Prejudice is always more or less blind to the truth, or the true method of doing actual injury. To strike at an enemy with a lie, is to make him your master forthwith. The Catholic Church bas lost ground through its own fanatics, but it has learned by experience, and to some extent regained its lost power. Its nonresistance is partly the secret of this gain. Its ellent work is another key to its success. Its unity is the greatest secret. The only power that can meet this, therefore, is cool-headedness, quiet and effective counter action, and a still greater unity of action in the opposition. This as a mortal power. But there is an evolutionary by forcing your presence too often on one who process that will eventually do more than all is always loving; for even the best-natured may that life is true. Ques .- [C. G.] Will great reform leaders here also hold similar positions in spirit life? If so, why are so many endowed with aspirations to be reformers, held back?

ANS-As a rule reform leaders continue their work on this side-provided they have not put something in their own way by misuse of the position entrusted to them. But there are also some who are only fit for a certain kind of reform while in the mortal, not in spirit. It may be due to environments; to circumstances; to brain endowment; to education; to conventional training, or general habits, which undergo an entire change at death. But they may find themselves fitted for other services-something entire ly different-perhaps greater than the worldly. Others, who were not capacitated for reform work in earth life, may find themselves splen didly endowed the moment they get rid of the physical body, which, to some bright souls, is a hindrance to success in spiritual reform matters, though not without good reasons for remaining in it until natural disintegration takes place. Without the latter they would not be ripe for the new work nohow, and it might take centuries to accomplish in spirit what years can do for a soul while attached to a physical body. It is of this class who have the aspiration, but are held back Aspiration simply tells as a future hope-some times to be realized in the body. But aspiration, selfcreated by worldliness, the love to rule, vanity or self-love does not bespeak of any talent for leadership. It is well that such are held back and it is often, by circumstances, imposed by the spirit world to prevent them from doing the harm they would if their aspirations came to frui tion. You may think some well-fitted to rule but you do not see the danger, both for the individual or the cause he or she is aspiring to lead. The evil would only show itself laterafter it is too late, perhaps, to undo it for the sal vation of either individual or cause. Those who are fitted or destined to lead, will lead some day -in proper time, too. Where there is a cause there will be an effect.

QUES .- [D. R. Dunihue ] If the spirit world near the earth, and yet away from it, how can there be trees, rivers, mountains, and real phe nomena without a foundation to rest upon? I can not comprehend a spirit world where every thing floats in the air. How can any kind o life keep from moving about without a material foundation?

ANS .- Every spirit speaks from his own standpoint. One will tell you that the spirit world is on the earth plane; others will tell you that they must descend from their realms or spheres to communicate with you. Both are cor rect statements. Being of entirely different ma stants of the lower, but is solid to those who are of the same ethereslized substance. Spirits on the clairvoyant glimpses of the world next above them, but do not know how to attain it. Such ishness committed in earth life. Those who are finement and morality, yet freighted with some pecially when they are thereby cut off from their loved ones. It is a dangerous experihigher knowledge or education for selfish purhigher sphere, and if employed for moral and honest purposes elevates the spirit to its natural or know how. Intention is everything. Among black-mailers, avengers, and those who are more in love with themselves than with their fellow mortals-having a morbid desire for recognition, praise, attention, etc. The undeveloped or ig norant seldom have these weaknesses, for they are educated evils, and, therefore, principally manifest among the higher class of mortals. Be ing of the earth earthy, they chain the spirit to the earth sphere and out of its natural element. To be happy is to be in accord with law. All forms of self love breaks this harmony, thus preventing the spirit from finding its home!

QUES .- [M. A. Z., Tecumseh, Mich.] When doing ordinary duties about home, suddenly I feel very happy, my heart seems to swell, I break forth in song, almost without knowing it, and without any reason I know of; then again I feel choked with tears for a few minutes; then it all passes away; will you kindly tell me why this is?

ANS .- You are simply a sensitive who is easily affected by prevailing or surrounding influ ences. These influences come to you either by the trend of your thoughts (sometimes brought on by actions) or the presence of some happy or sad spirits, affecting you accordingly. Through this sensitiveness you are made aware of condi tions unseen to the physical eye. While thinking of a certain person, for example, you should momentarily feel depressed or boyant, fault finding or loving, irritable or calm, you can judge the momentary state of that person's inner condition, or feelings. This is a secret worth possessing, for you can govern yourself according by when your work is finished, we all will meet to that should you have any business with such an individual. Should you feel irritable every time you think of such a one, it is best to keep away. But do not make selfish use of the other extreme you to judge accordingly. Try to find reasons to to get rid of this sickly sensation, I have no idea forgive always, and you will finally reach a state It follows me like a tormenting demon. If I in which you are always happy, despite the could but indulge in some good wine, and a uncongenial influences that sometimes encroach goodly quantity at once, I think I would momen upon you. Instead of feeling them with similar tarily feel better or relieved. But I can find no bad effect, you will simply know it by intuitive place to gratify this craving. The friends that I consciouspess.

Ques - [C G ] If the soal is eternal how can

ANS .- The word growth as expressing a principle appertaining to matter has only a figurative significance in connection with the soul. If soul growth implied bulk, mental growth would be synonymous with it, and college professors, scientists, inventors, editors, lecturers, etc., would all have larger heads than ordinary people, which, however, is not the case. The soul grows eternally in knowledge and wisdom, not in mass.

QUES .- [Truth seeker ] What is intuition? ANS .- Intuition is to man what instinct is to the animal. Reason is the natural outcome; the most active taking the lead, manifested in the animal as cunning and craftiness, and in man as wisdom and knowledge. Selfishness is the name given to the perversion of wisdom by craftiness or cunning, and it looks all the blacker the higher you ascend in spiritual progress. Intui ion comes to all alike, except in degree. The savage unfolds it in his crude way, while the cul tured man creates theories; the spiritual plans for reform. It is an effect of spiritual evolution. It is the light of causation, manifesting through an individualized life condition. It is the divinity of nature coming to the front. It is the true and only God of the universe that man can comprehend, and from which he must begin to reason if ne wishes to get any sort of a rational conception of the real deity or life essence that pervades and controls all things. First understand self, sporitually and morally; then ask why you are conscious, and reason on it; then try to understand what consciousness means, or is; and when it begins to dawn on you that the latter has to be understood intuitively, you will get some i'les of God or intelligence, and also know why there is such a thing in existence as instinct or intuition

I hope these words of love I send to my dear mother still in earth life will reach her through some kind friend. Dear mother, how your heart is torn with anguish because Lilly was taken from you. Do not feel that I am gone from you; for I am with you so much, and would fain wipe away the falling tears, and comfort you as of old It was better for me to go to spirit life, for here I am not a poor burdensome cripple that belonged to earth condition. I can come to you and help you so much, if you could only know how to make the right conditions. Grandpa Allen helps me to learn the way to come, and in the near fu ture you will have an opportunity to see my face and know that it is really I. Do not mourn for me; it makes me feel bad, as I know that if you others are with me and send spirit greeting. could only understand and realize how alive I am, you would only be happy that I was released from the earth form, which at best was a deformity and full of pain. I send my love to all in the home, at Kansas City, Mo.

Lauretta Cross.

I passed into higher life from the town of Rutland, Vt. I did not know of this great truththat we still live and that our hearts still reach out to those we loved in earth life. I have a hus band and children, and many friends to know that we can and do return to earth, ever hoping that by some way or method our dear ones will know us and receive us; but sometimes and many times the conditions are such that we can not and do not have a chance to convince them how near and how often we are with them. Kind friends have brought me here-opened another avenue-by sending a message through the LIGHT OF TRUTH to the dear ones in the home, hoping thereby to reach them with my spirit love. This is to my husband, John Cross, and my children, Will, Sarah, and Minnie Cross.

William H. Wright.

I was known in my home, which was Whitewater, Wis., by the name of William Wright. I have been in spirit life several years. I visit my ol surroundings often and try to have my son Will and friends know me. My son, Mortimer, is with me. Some will remember him as he was killed by a railroad accident before I passed over. I knew something of Spiritualism in life, but did not give it much attention, and now am sorry. I want to say to my old friends it is a truth, seek

Elfred Holmes.

To Mrs. Dr. Matilda Schultz, Elizabeth, New Jersey. Aunt Tilda: I am so happy to come to you through the LIGHT OF TRUTH and bring my spirit love and say we all are ever with you during the change and trip. W. T. D. is ever with you, bringing about the right conditions, so you will be contented and happy the remaining time you in the sweet Summer land, where all sorrow and suffering is at an end. Oh, how grand and beautiful is this knowledge. I was taught quite hard for me to receive this truth, but I know now the masses; make school facilities acceptable to drawing happiness by the simple thought or spirit greetings. Cheer up, all will be well.

I feel bad-sick in the region of my stomach. am in accord with are all temperate people-edu cated, refined, and moral. I was all this as a mortal, but had one unfortunate passion-drink. I would at times sacrifice the pleasure of refined society to indulge with men of an inferior order -men for whom I had no earthly use otherwise. and men whom I could not harmonize with mentally, socially, or spiritually. Nor am I yet able to find a foothold among them-there being no harmony for attraction. The simple passion for drink alone does not do it in my case, at least but I am cognizant of the fact that the spiritual in my nature is too far beyond theirs to allow me to enter their sphere or aura. Now, I am worse off than one on the sensual or earthbound plane, for such a one can always find a way to inculge, paychologically, if in no other way. But it may be best in the end that I can not; for undoubtedly it will aid in freeing me from the passion, and consequently the nauses; whereas, could I gratity these cravings, I might never rise out of this peculiar state. I am not earthbound, yet not light-spirited, as I see others around me. I have much light, but thinking seems difficult under the circumstances. I expect it is all the effect of a wine impregnated aura or spirit, and would therefore advise those on a spiritual plane in earth-life, especially when mediums, as I was, to abstain from the indulgence, if they do not wish to share the same fate with me-though I am far better off than I used to be. But this is no cure What I want is happiness, and hoped to gain some by coming through this medium and giving this message to the world for the benefit of those who, like myself, are slaves to drink. I will not give my name, but some will surmise who it is by something in the message. It is more for their sake than my own that I wish to remain in cognito. Good-bye.

"Burt."

I am happy to come and send a message through this avenue to my dear mother, for I know she will see it, and it will make her happy to know I can come to her in this way. I want her to know we all were with her on Thanksgiving Day-Parmer, Mattie, Red Jacket, and all the band. Every thing is coming out right. We want this to reach my mother, Mrs. Dr. Lindner, at Xenia, O.

Samuel Bryant.

I want to send a few words to my dear friends still in earth life. I would have them know that I still exist, and reach out in love to all who re ceived my love and care in earth life. I am anx ious that in some way they will learn of this beautiful truth, and can make right conditions for me to advise and direct them how to unfold and grow spiritually from its knowledge and teach ings. I lived in Tecumseh, Mich., and have wife and children there now, and hope in some way that this may reach them. To my neighbors and friends who may recognize my name I would say that they should not delay to learn the truth of spirit return, so their dear friends can come closer to them in the earth life to help and direct them. I was known as Samuel Bryant, of Tecumseh, Mich. Morris Fox, Theo. Smith, and

I am with you often in the home-watching, with fond care, over your little bodies, and ever throwing around them a protecting influence. Grandma Clemens and little Florence are with me and send love.

We of Daniel Underhill, Mrs. Katie Fex Jencken, know sometimes our mortal friends prove untrue and make much unhappiness, but your spirit friends have not left you, and are doing all they can under all the conditions. So keep up good heart, Mr. Carter will give you something soon that will please you. Brother Frankie in time will make a good medium. From your son, Henry Thiese.

There is a sea beyond the grave, Infinite and serenely grand; Whose pure, pellucid waters lave The cternal shores of spirit land. And on that sea forever floats, Among the stars with radiance rife. The fairest of all heaven's boats; The welcome bark of eternal life.

There is a land beyond the tomb; A land of never-fading flowers, And God will give all people room To work in that bright land of ours Yes, there is a home beyond the grave For every soul created here. What God could make, his power can save So, trembling mortal, calm your fear.

There is a life beyond the tomb; A life which death alone can give When we have passed the mortal doom We only just begin to live. I hear a voice beyond the grave. Which bids my sorrowing heart rejoice; That silvery echo o'er the wave Is a lo ing spirit's gentle voice.

Remember the National Spiritual Jubilee, December 17, 1893.

Will your society contribute to make this an mportant era in the history of Spiritualism and give it au impetus that during the coming year of 1894 will place us more prominently before the world and compel respectful recognition of the transcendent truths of Spiritualism?

Will you do this personally? For it most often requires one or a few individuals to create enthusiasm and resulting action, where a large number are concerned. If there is any disposition to apathy, push it aside, and by your own example create at this time within your society a vigor and persistence of effort that will make you and all feel happy.

Your own personal co operation is desired to make our National Spiritualists' Jubilee a success in every particular, and if you wish to do something at this time to make your heart feel glad, and promote by the efforts now in progress the cause we all hold so dear, we ask you to do all in your power to make the Jubilee a success. The time is opportune, the signs are suspicious, and now let it not be said that your society failed to enter into the great, grand, and glorious efforts of December 17th, to bring us all together in a bond indissoluble, and that will be ever after a source of spiritual comfort, exalting ourselves in our own estimation and that of the entire body of Spiritualists throughout the coun-

The Board of Trus ees of the National Association unite in earnestly recommending you to interest yourself personally in this matter and send us a report of your Jubilee to condense with other reports from all other sections of the country, which is to be published in pamphlet form.

THE MISSING LINK OF MODERN SPIRITUAL-ISM, by A. Lesh (Fox) Underbill. John A. Lant, Tarrytown, N. Y., publisher. Pp. 477. Price $1.50, postage 10 cents. For sale at this

This is a true and authenticated history of the Fox sisters and the Hydesville rappings. Coming from one of the family, the evidence is unquestioned. Besides a full and complete account of the first rappings and its immediate results; its spread subsequently to the birth of its philosophy, and details anent the philosophy, the book is illustrated, having Mrs. Margaret Fox as of a baby's mediumship; Mrs. Margaret Fox-Kane; diagram of Troup house; the Ohio medal presented to Mrs. Underbill; autograph letters rom Alice Cary, Judge Edmunds, and Horace and the authoress Mrs. Underhill; Greek writing by a five months' old infant; and the Hydesville house. It also contains thirty-three interesting chapters of phenomena, comment, and general information. Furthermore, it is care-fully compiled, revised, and edited, and may be regarded as the Bible of Modern Spiritualism. Every family should have it at home.

MRS SHELHAMER LONGLEY AND THE LIGHT OF TRUTH.

It is with no ordinary sense of gratification that we announce to our readers the services of Mrs. Shelhamer Longley in the Spirit Message Department of LIGHT OF TRUTH Mrs. Longley's career as the medium of the Banner of Light Free Circle, covering a period of fourteen years, brought her and her wise guides into prominence second to none in the long line of honorable and trustworthy mediums of America and Europe. Her continued work in this line should not be lost to the world, and in our arrangement with her and her guides to take this department of LIGHT OF TRUTH we consider that all concerned, the guides, the medium, the publishers, and the patrons, are to be congratulated.

The calm and able manner in which spirit Pierpont and his coadjutors handled the many and varied questions sent to our Eastern contemporary was a source of delight to its readers, and no gauge can be placed upon the volume of human betterment accruing from the work.

Mrs. Longley will assume her position in next issue. Now let all who can in our ranks come forward and add their names to our list of subscribers to the end that the number to erjoy this feast may be largely in-

The Banner of Light, in its issue of the 2d inst, squares itself on the subject of organiza tion in an editorial leader a column and a half in length. Our esteemed contemporary says it is for "organization" if the spirit world desires it, is ready for it, and directs it; if not-not!

Although the Inter-State Commerce Law is a crude and bungling affair, and has received some pretty hard blows upon the question of its constitutionality there can be no doubt about the wisdom of a move to curtail the extortions of railway corporations in the matter of rates, and lift a little of the barden from the shoulders of the people who have to pay the bills. The Inter-State Commerce Commission has performed its duties wisely thus far, and probably has done all it could under the present provisions of the act. In its annual report the claim is set forth that while all expectations have not been realized the operation of the statute has well nigh revolutionized the traffic management of the country. and has corrected evils which amount to commercial emancipation.

Jubilee Poem.

Poem to be recited by the youngest member of each society on the day of the National Spiritual Jubilee, December 17, 1803.

The day of Jubilee is here We sing our song of praise and love We celebrate life's perfect year, United with the realms above.

We know there is no death to-day We see the leaves and blossoms fall The hidden germs cannot decay, They waken to the Spring's sweet call. We know our loved ones fade from sight,

As shadows fade before the sun, To be revealed in golden light, In the fair kingdoms they have won We cannot see the atmosphere

So, viewless, these heavenly friends are near

Lighting our pathway as we go: Yet manifest sometimes to sense, More frequently to soul they come, Dispelling earth-born shadows dense

With glory of the heavenly home. Taught by these blest ones from above That every deed and word of ours, If prompted by goodness and love Will blossom into heavenly flowers.

That if we nurture hate and scorn And seek revenge while in this state, Each thought becomes thistle or thorn To pierce our lives with our own hate,

Or take the life we cannot give, Our shadows clothe us in that sphere And make our realm till we forgive That the fair islands of the blest,

That if we injure others here,

The gardens of our paradise Are fashioned when we do the best Having but truth before our eyes Our mansions are not made with hands,

Our treasures are not gold and gema, But fashioned of love s high commands. Of thoughts wrought into diadems. They teach us that no soul is "lost,"

But if one heart by woe is tossed We feel that sorrow, every one. No flowers blossoms all alone. No star shines but its sister star

No one can enjoy heaven alone;

Pierces the depths of its azure throne To greet its sister from afar. Each atom helps to form the whole

Of this grand universe of ours,

So every thought from every soul

Complete the Truth's resplendent powers. Immortal songs are in the air, Anthems of praise by spiri's sung: The soul repeats the theme most rare,

The earth with garlands is o'erhang. Let joy-bells ring in every heart; Our watchword Truth and Unity, Let sorrow from each life depart,

This is the Day of Jubilee.

A Massachusetts State Organization.

A call has been made through the LIGHT OF TRUTH, the Banner of Light, and through a circular letter sent to the societies and individuals as widely as the knowledge of names and addresses was obtainable by those acting on the committee to attend a convention of Spiritualists to be held at the First Spiritual Temple of Boston, corner of Newbury and Exeter streets, Monday, Dec 18th, beginning at 11 a. m., holding through the day and evening. A very interesting gather-ing is anticipated, which will be a fitting continuation of the Jubilee Day declared by the National Association for Sunday, the 17th inst.

First in order will be the business for which the convention is called, that of organizing a State association. Any spare time will be occupied in short addresses, music, and literary exercises by workers who will be present on that oc-If any societies or individuals, who the cause of Spiritualism at heart will manifest it by making a sacrifice of business on that day, and come to the convention.

It is expected that an organization will be ried forward. Afterward will not be a good time to say who should have been chosen as officers, or by what rules and regulations we should be governed. Therefore, let all interested come and help in trying to perfect plans by which work can be better carried on for the good of all, and the advancement of the cause we hold so dear. This will be the last call for societies to select their delegates which should be for chartered societies, according to the best judgment of the officers, and according to their numbers in Societies and meetings not chartered should be represented by the coairman and one or two others he may choose, while any prominent Spiritualists living where there are no societies will be welcomed. ## CORRESPONDENCE.

California Letter.

Perhaps your readers will be interested to learn of the progress of our cause upon the Pacific Coast.

Here in the city of San Prancisco many medi ums labor. Just at this time I cannot say they flourish in a business sense, as the stringercy of the money market keenly affects them in the de crease of paying sitters Speaking from my own experience, as well as what I have heard from others, I conclude that all mediums are given many opportunities of practicing their benevo lence toward the needy and the sill cted, and at though they may not be able to give much from the purse, yet I know they are frequently dupensing of their spiritual gifts "without money and without price' to those who desire to communicate with the spirits world and cannot re compense the medium for his or her services.

There is much written and spoken concerning the exercise of mercantile mediumship, and something I think to be said on both sides of this important subject. In these days, as in an cient times, "the moorer is worthy of his hire," and mediums and secturers cannot give their strength and time in this labor for humanity unless they receive sufficient recognition to insure them bread, raiment, and shelter. And yet I know of nothing that would make me more happy than to know that every true, honest medium and every worthy lecturer in the spiritualistic vineyard was so situated as to have the wants of the body amply provided for, and to be able to exercise their spiritual powers for the common gree.

As for myself, I never accept a dollar in payment for any medial service I have rendered, but what I wish I had no need to do so, and it is my earnest hope that I may yet be able to do the will of my spirit guides without having to be paid for the work. So much comes grudgingly from those who visit mediums or attend lectures. Now and then the sensitive workers feel that the sitting or the lecture is paid for gladly, but fre quently they know that, although the service tney have rendered was good and helpful and worthy of recognition, it was paid for unwill-

I admired the article by Willard J. Hull, "A Question and Its Answer," in the November 25th issue of your paper. It is timely and to the point—it might be read with profit by all medi ums, and ought to be copied in all our spiritual

But to return to the cause in our city. A number of societies hold Sunday services, and many and give public seances in various halls. Each Sunday evening witnesses sixteen public meetings in this city in the name of Spiritualism Many of them call together large audiences.

The Society of Progressive Spiritualists, for whom I have been speaking in connection with Dr. Ravlin since my coming here, and of which I will speak later, is, in a monetary point, the most influential in the State, it includes among its numbers many intellectual minds that are a credit to the cause.

Among the many mediums who hold public meetings is Mrs. Maggie Waite, whom the Spiritualists of the E ast nad an opportunity to meet last season. Her tests of spirit identity are very clear and convincing and will please the inquiring mind.

Perhaps the most wonderful medium on this coast is Dr. Louis Schlesinger. He is a marvel to all who come in contact with his powers. The doctor's tests are incontrovertible, in public or private, it matters not, they go straight to the mark. I have heard many who at the opening of a seance or public meeting had boasted of their skepticism and told how many of the "test" mediums they had sat with without satisfactory results, at the close of the service give public in-dorsement of the mediumship of Dr Schlesinger, and confess that they had within the hour received unmistakable evidence of spirit ident ity and communication. The doctor's work is essentially with the skeptic and scoffer, and the more materialistic and positive the more determined are his guides to bring conviction to that mind, and I am told the case is very rare where he fails in his work.

Henry B. Alleu, known all his life as "The Allen Boy," whose physical mediumship creates wonder in the mind of all who sit with him, is doing a good work in this vicinity. For some weeks he has been established in Oakland, just across the bay, where he gives weekly seances before the Psychical Society there, that is investigating phenomenal Spiritualism through his me diumship. The results are wonderful, the com mittee having the seances in charge is astounded. The secular press has printed much concerning his work. Some of the learned mindsthat have been investigating his mediumship, have tried to "grasp" Allen and expose him-his seances are held in a darkened room-but they have only grasped empty air, or perhaps some floating instrument that had no hand or perceptible means of support, which instrument would give the offending grabber a smart rap for his too vigorous zeal. All this agitation is doing a great deal of good, and the cause is not made to suffer by it. The forcible and polished lectures of Dr. Ravlin have furnished food for thought to all thinking minds, and should have been sent broadcast over the land. Dr Ravlin has ministered to the Society of Progressive Spiritualists for three years. He has just resigned his position, and on Sunday, November 26th, he delivered his farewell lecture-a masterly effort upon "Ghosts that will not down."

At the public circle of the Pacific Coast Spiritualist, on Monday evening, November 27th, at which there was a large attendance, I had the honor of being ordained as a minister of the gos pel of Spiritualism by Dr. N. F. Ravlin, under the auspices of the Society of Progressive Spiritualists. The service was pronounced most beautiful by all who attended, and I felt myself highly honored for having received my ordination papers at the hands of such an eloquent and noble worker as Dr. Ravlin.

The messages given by our medium, Mrs Maggie Waite, at the public circle here are creating great interest, many of them being verified before they appear in print.

Why Louisville has so many good mediums, any one of which is sadly needed in many a town, I do not know. Is it the soft climate; is it the slight degree of Southern passivity, so different from the eagerness of those who dwell further north; is it the affectionate nature and persistent love of home of these dwellers south of the Onio? It is probably all these, as well as other year. The weather was very inclement, but the causes that lie beyond may penetration. #### New York Notes.

On Wednesday evening November as Walter Howeli addressed the New York Psychical Socie His subject was,"Spiritualism as an aid to Human Progress." The speaker said in substance, that the Greeks regarded the State as all in all, and the individual as a mere fraction. With the dawn of the Christian era came a fuller recognition of the individual and a dispair of the of naving steamboats is quite interesting to State. In modern times we realize the need of social and individual reform, and Spiritualism more than any other philosophy inspires our confidence in the ultimate realization of both For behind the phenomena of the physical world lies the reality of a spiritual world whose actualities form the basis of our ideals of society's future transformation. And, within the indiv dual, Spirituslismbeholds the angel of the coming time. With such a realistic foundation for our most beautiful ideals as the possibilities of the State and its units we may cheerfully work and wait, knowing that the song of the poet, the vision of the seer, the forecast of the prophet, and the pictured glory of the artist will ultimately be realized.

Mr. Harlow Davis gave tests. He read thoughts, saw the contents of a pocket book, diagnosed scribed departed friends with marvelons accuracy. We regret that Mr. Davis leaves a field where his services are so much in demand, to go South. We trust, however, his Southern trip will restore

The afternoon meeting was well attended notwithstanding the miserable weather. The sut-ject of "Organization" was discussed. Mr. Henry J. Newton spoke in favor of it, while Mr. Wright offered of jections. Other speakers and mediums followed with remarks and tests.

The evening audience was excellent. Subjects were taken from the audience and treated by the speaker. More enthusiasm in the living of our divine pre-Bat I do not know of any other way to do but to act up to our highest ideal of what is right or cepts. wrong, and it will depend on how much knowledge we have upon all subjects of how high our ideal may be.

Now the Caristian may think it is wrong to enforce the strongest Sunday laws to make every nant of her earth life to prove a rich blessing one do what he thinks is right in this matter of to toiling mortals, and to crown her entrance in keeping Sundsy. They want to force people by to that higher life. That is the destiny of a dilaw to be moral according to their ideals of morality. To my mind you can not legislate morality into the people any more than you can intellectuality. The Prohibitionist may say it is very immoral to use liquor as a beverage, while thousands of very good people think it does not injure them, therefore it would be moral for them to use it. Yet the Prohibitionists want to legislate so the people will have to do just what they think is right. What looks so very; inconsistent to me is the claim the "Prohibs" made that it is wrong to drink liquor as a beverage and good for the human system as a medicine. It makes me think of the story told of a man who went out hunting deer. He saw what he supposed was a deer or a calf, he could not tell which, but he concluded he would shoot at it, and hold his gun so that if it was a deer he would hit it, and if a calf he would miss it. The "Prohibs" would have the person who took liquor as a beverage injure them but if they were sick cure them. There is about as much sense in one case as the other. To my mind all stimulants are a greater or less injury to any one who uses them-whether taken as a beverage or a medicine. So we might go on in various ways to illustrate the point I wish to make do not interfere with any other person's liberty. But it is a duty they own to themselves to be posted in all that pertains to practical life so they will not make mistakes through ignorance so that they will not have to suffer for it. I believe in giving all freedom to do as they please, but if they please to wrong any one else then they should be properly restrained. Therefore, I say to do right is moral and to do wrong is immoral whether you injure others or yourself. To use tobacco injures yourself and very often injures others, yet the one who uses it may not think so. I have often wondered if the coming man will use tobacco or liquor, I think not, but he may be a long time coming.

The Need of Organization.

[To the Editor of the LIGHT OF TRUTH.]

On this important question of organization I should like to say a few words. For twenty five years that I have taken an interest in Spirituslism, in England, Canada, and the United States I find that in this lack of organization, through want of systematic management, we, as Spiritualists have not made the progress we ought to have made.

Under the name of mediums and Spiritualists, and for the sake of the almighty dollar the country has been over-run with frauds who have seriously injured our cause in the estimation of enquirers and investigators. It is to be hoped that this National Organization will endeavor to form societies in all cities and towns where no such society exists. They will, no doubt, require missionaries to travel and urge unity of action. The best speakers and most reliable physical mediums will be required, having a cer tificate of qualification. This I believe would put a stop to the numerous frauds and partially developed mediums who are humbugging the

PLEASING COMMENT.

For many weeks I have enjoyed the perusal of Abby A Jadson's letter to the public through Room ", me Eace of , your columns Two of the principal reasons for views on the subject may be very strange to aginary realms so many aspire to, and meet the others. I do not think we can have any moral capacities of the unfed, unlettered multitudes bend all overs and make all reminances payable to C. standard in things because there is such a variety Secondly because, like her father, mine was an STOWELL, Room 7, and Race Street, Charleson, O. of opinions on this subject. Yet hearts as well as minds. Who seek to do good as the person that committed the murder thought well as to gain shekels. Who feel the necessities of it was moral to do so, and the State thought it their flock-who love them and as nearly as poswas moral to murder him and most people say sible get into their aura and lift them up higher Ob, give us more unselfish love-more spiritual energy, more religion, if so you please to term it.

What are earthly emoluments compared to the "having done what we could" as we pass through our earthly career? I have never met Miss Judson. I may never meet her while in the body work on Sanday, while others do not. And I but I love her as I love all earnest, sincere advo would say to both sides, Live up to what you cates of truth. #### The National Jubilee.

[To the Editor of the LIGHT OF TRUTH.]

I see by your valuable paper that the Spiritualists have decided on December 17th as a National Jubilee. I think this both timely and appropriate. This will take the place of our old Christmas, as the initiated know very well where that originated, and we Spiritualists, as a progressive body, are continually outgrowing mythology. Give us something more in accordance with our advancement. It is time we were outgrowing our swadd. ling clothes and putting on the garments more fitting our growth and development. I, for one, say, hurrah for our jubilee, let us individually and collectively make this our jubilee a rousing success, let each one of us who can muster our dear Stars and Stripes, fling our colors to the breeze, let us give expression to our patriotism on any and all occasions and especially on this, which is this, all must be their own judge our own holiday. I trust we will all adopt this of what is right for them to do as long as they as a permanent thing, and that it may be an established fact in all time to come.

Dear brothers and sisters, let us do all in our power to make this our annual day of demonstration. "United we stand, divided we fall," let us stand a solid body for this our "National Jubilee," then shall our cause blossom like the rose, and peace and good will be extended to all alike.

MRS A. L. MORRIS.

Reply to "Chit Chat."

To the Editor of the LIGHT OF TRUTH.]

I must ask your indulgence to thank Carrie M. Smith for her kindly sayings of my work in your paper of November 18 h. Had she said Mrs. Colby Luther is too radical, (though what she says is true) but she always hurts some one who is sensitive in religion and politics, which is not in keeping with the spiritual harmony of Spiritualism, it would not have attracted my attention. But, when I read her letter headed "Chit Chat" and saw she dare write for the thousands to read. not only respectful but in praise of my work it seemed a dream. While many thousands, among which are our best intellects, have thanked me for the truth so defiantly given in defence of liberty, by a spirit power, which has not made winged spirit harmonies a study, yet seldom has an expression like this been given through a spiritual paper. Again I thank Carrie M. Smith for her MRS COLBY LUTHER. bearing.

A Genuine Roman Catholic Miracle.

By request we reprint the following evidence of Rome's power in working miracles:

In a certain church in Ireland a young priest took for his text,"The Feeding of the Multitude" But he said, "And they fed ten people with ten thousand loaves of bread and ten thousand fishes." Thereat an old Irishman said, "That's no miracle; be gorra, I could do that myself," cause, and bringfog disgrace and contempt upon which the priest overheard. The next Sunday, the priest announced the same text, but he had it right this time-"And they fed ten thousand people on ten loaves of bread and ten fishes.' ism in Salt Lake City -the land of saints and He waited a second, and then leaned over the pulpit and said, "And could you do that, Mr. Murthough they were Spiritualists who first seceded phy?" Mnrphy replied, "Sure, your reverence, I could." "And how could you do it?" said the priest. "Sure, your reverence, I could do it with what was left over from last Sunday."

All evil or seifish doings are self-punishable. I believe if we had good speakers and genuine, It requires no avenging god or recording angel of truth. I believe it to be a mistaken concep. of the act or thought. This mental darkness tion with some that organization will ultimately leads to blunders or to the possibility of being sessit in a kind of officialism or a spiritual hier- imposed upon by other sharks in ratio to the rascality committed; or, theologically expressed,

This work gives a triumph ant array of facts and principles in proof of Spiritualism and establishes a gospel of joy in place of the fearful old dogmas. F. J. Wilbourn, M. #### New Orleans, La.

Mr. A. Willis, the well-known materializing of Cincinnati, left here December medium, h for his home. He has done a wonderful lot of good here for the advancement of Spiritual sm. He demonstrated to the people of this city his wonderful gift, and strengthened their faith in piritualism. Mr. John Morris, his control, said that it was the only possible way of gaining the truth of spirit-return, and invited all honest seekers of the truth to investigate. Those who attended Mr. Willis' seances were well satisfied. As for me it was perfectly marvelous. I never witnessed any materializations before, although I have read considerable of the philosophy. Mr. Willis will be long remembered by the people of this city. He carries with him the kindest wishes and best thoughts of our people. Under the influence of John Morris, his control, there are many undergoing development.

There is a movement among the people of this city, of whom there are a great many that never belonged to a spiritual society before, to form a psychic research society. They are not asbamed of the name of Spiritualist by any means. The name was suggested and accepted in a city with a population of 250 000. We have but one society, so you can see that the movement is in order.

I began my work here in this beautiful city by the lake the first Sunday in December, and was greeted with good audiences in spite of the severe storm, both morning and evening, and much interest seemed manifest.

Tuesday of the same week the friends met in goodly numbers and perfected an organization, and doing so in the most perfect harmony. Mr. M. A. Root was chosen president; Mrs. Howey, vice president; Mr. Howey, secretary; Mr. John Broughton, treasurer; Mr. L. Sovereign, Mr. Roossman, and Mr. Ferris, trustees.

The society starts out well officered, and I fully believe will do an excellent work. It has one of the best constitutions extant.

Spiritualism in this city has not publicly done much for a good many years, but notwithstanding all it has grown, and to-day there is a large element here interested in the work. It is the desire of the society that all of the scattered forces be gathered and cemented together by a closer union than ever, and the social, moral, intellectual, and spiritual nature of each shall be cultivated.

Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Root, the ladies met and formed an aid society, to be known as the "Spiritualist Willing Workers." De Reamer, vice president; Mrs. Anna Broughton, secretary, and Mrs. Gould treasurer. The ladies are determined to do what they can in any line of work that may be presented, either in as sisting the society or in aiding those who need

Next Sunday I shall try and start a lyceum, but whether it will be a success remains to be seen, but I trust one may be established, as the yceum can do a work that no society can do. Bay City Spiritualists have fully made up their minds to do their part in the great work of reform, and I know they will succeed. G. H. BROOKS.

A very enjoyable entertainment was given by the Woman's Progressive Union, for the benefit of the Fex Memorial Association and in place of the regular Saturday conference. It consisted of solos, duets and poetical recitations, presented the subjective and objective." The guides claimed, the subjective and objective. The guides claimed, in a manner highly creditable to those who volnateered their services ; w hile the decorations and general fisish of the whole were an added evidence of the good work already done by the ladies in helping the cause here.

Wilson McDonald, the originator of the Memorial Association, was prevailed upon to sing; and though he comp'ained that it was so many years since he had used his voice in that way, that the "wingless Samaritans"did him a wrong in asking him, yet he sang the Low Back Car, and the "Widow McCree" to oblige them. I don't know that he will thank me for saying so, but in his looks and manner upon the platform, especially before the conference, he resembles the man who preaches to same people here more than any one else I know, I mean T. DeWitt Talmage. Especial mention should be made of the recitations of Mrs. Ada Woodruff and Miss Estella Quick, and of the beautiful song "L'Ardita" by aliss Alice Merritt. The proceeds go to remove turn. The guide also dealt with "clairvoyance" the remains of the two sisters, Maggie and Kate, from the receiving want of Cypress Hills cemetary, and place them in the family plot there of Mr Joseph La Fume, Treasurer of the Brooklyn Spiritual Association, until a suitable, permanent abiding place shall be provided for all that remains of the earthly tabernacle of two of the martyr mediums of Modern Spiritualism.

On Sunday Evening last memorial services were held at the residence of Mrs. Dr. J. Cole Blake, No. 1024 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Blake's elegant and spacious parlors were tastefully decorated with beautiful flowers and ferns which were pleasing to the eye as well as the other senses of the wast andience present, which the event brought forth.

Many prominent Spiritualists from New York, Brooklyn, and the vicinity were present. Mrs. Dr. Blake was as usual bright and pleasing, and gave those who graced the occasion with their presence some very good and convincing tests which were acknowledged by skeptics as well as Mrs. Blake was followed by Mrs. Eggleston, who recited a very beautiful poem, which was very appropriate to the occasion and was received with well merited applause.

Mr. Eggleston also made some happy remarks and paid a touching tribute to our dear departed ones. We were then entertained by some very fine vocal and instrumental music by some of the artists present. Mrs. Annie M. Jacquess, of Wastington, D. C., the well-known platform speaker and test medium, held the audience entranced with her fine readings and many wonderful tests, which brought to a close a spiritual treat long to be remembered by those fortunately present. Mrs. H. S. Lake, pastor of the Cleveland Spiritual Alliance, resumed her ministrations at Army and Navy Hall Sunday evening, December 3d. The audience was light in comparison to the extra large one the previous Sunday, called out by the celebrated phenomenal medium, Miss Maggie Gaule, of Baltimore; but deep interest was manifested by all present in the powerful address of Mrs. Lake on a plain talk on "Moral Obliga-tions" More pleasing it might have been, more truthful and forcible it could hardly be. The meeting was closed with four or five very successful psychometric readings by Mrs. Lake.

President Thomas A. Black gave notice that he would give a financial report of the Cleveland Spiritual Alliance next Sunday, and that steps would be taken to incorporate the society under the name of "The People's Church," so as to increase its membership and place it on a firmer financial basis.

The Progressive Thinkers' Society of the West Side has made extensive preparations to observe the "National Jubilee," to be held on the 17th of this month, and to that end have invited Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle, of Berlin Heights, to conduct the exercises-commencing on Friday, December 15th at Wieber's Hall, 483 Pearl street. The l'rogressive Thinkers' ladies will serve supper from 6 to 7 30 p. m., after which Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle will address the friends present, closing with a musical and social.

On Sunday, Jubilee Day, Mrs. Tuttle will give a children's talk to the lyceum at 2 p. m., and at p. m. Hudson Tuttle will give a public address to which everyone is cordially invited.

Chicago, III.

Last Sunday ushered in two new societies here. One at South Chicago was called together in the worst possible weather, but a very nice audience of seventy-eight greeted Dr. Carpenter. Mrs. Marion, Mr. Harry Dalton, all of Chicago, and Mrs. Celia Hughes, formerly of your city now residing at Barnum's hotel, Thirty first street. Everybody was pleased, and Mr. Dalton and Mrs. Hughes will go out again next Sunday and min ister to the hungry souls of that thriving little

The other was held in the city, corner of Thirty first street, and Indiana avenue, in what is known as Lakeside Hall. The afternoon was taken for talking over organization, and was addressed by the guides of Mrs. Edith E. R. Nickless, and was noted for the quiet and effective harmony throughout. In the evening the guides took a subject from the audience, upon the best methods of obtaining success, and was ably treated. Mrs. Mariou, Mr. Dalton, and Mrs. Celia Hughes also spoke briefly upon the same subject. the evidences go to show that the audience was in such perfect harmony as to insure success.

OBITUARY.

Passed on from her home near Gahanna Franklin County, Ohio, December 4, 1893, Laure Patterson Moore, aged eighty-three years and ten months. Sister Moore was stricken with paralysis, and was freed from the body after a short illness. She, as well as her husband, whose widow she had been for forty years, were earnest and devoted Spiritualists. She was the mother of three children, and, in addition to this, cared for and assisted in the rearing of eight step children, and one foster child. By a life of sacrifice for others she prepared herself for a high sta tion in the life beyond. All who knew her respected her for her devotion to the principles of the spiritual philosophy. Funeral services con ductedby the writer at her home December 6th W. R. C.

Do You Have Asthma?

If you do, you will be glad to hear that the Kola plant, found on the Congo river, West Africa, is reported a positive cure for the disease. The Kola Importing Co., 1164 Broadway, New York, have such faith in this new discovery, that they are sending out free by mail, large trial cases of Kola Compound to all sufferers from Asthma, who send their name and address on a postal card. Write to them, Hamilton, Canada.

In spite of the inclement weather and snow as many other spirits had through nearly every medium that the subjective powers of the human mind were nearly equal to the powers of the decarnated spirit, but it required the almost complete annihilation of the physical powers to reach this extreme condition. Examples of the power of the human mind over matter were quite common among the Pandits and Yoghis of Hindoos tan, Thibet, etc. To assert as some modern scientists had done that spiritualistic phenomena were the product of the human ego was sheer nonsense. The powers of the human mind, subjective or objective, were limited to present knowledge, and could not deal, as the spirits could, with prophecies of the future. The evidence of spirit return had been brought home with absolute certainty to earth's inhabitants in a thousand different ways, and the most elab orate "dual mind" theory ever concocted would not disturb the facts connected with spirit rewhich was a spiritual gift ; and mortals retaining consciousness could exercise this gift as well as spirits when controlling mediums

Toledo Ohio Spiritualists.

The Progressive Thought Society of this city met last Sunday evening to hear an inspirational lecture by Mr. Coulson Turnbull. The subject chosen was "From Monad to Man" The audience, which was not large on account of the recent in-clement weather, was well paid for their attendance, it being remarked that Mr. Turnbull was indeed at his best on that evening. He showing the birth of planet, its different growths, the grand organic march from stardust to man. The lecture was deeply instructive and appreciated by all present.

On Friday evening a grand social is to be held at the parlors of Mrs. Curran under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

We meet in the G. A. R. Hall, which has been newly furnished, and we are hopeful of continued success in our work here. All visitors from other cities cordially we come.

Direct Route West.

The Ohio & Mississippi Railway is the only road running directly West to the Mississippi Riyer. It is the short line between Cincinnati and St. Louis; the latter being the principal gateway to all the Western country.

In keeping with its importance as a through route to the West, this line runs all of its trains through solid to St. Louis. No waiting at intermediate points to be "consolidated" with a train from somewhere else. No transferring of baggage or of passengers who travel in the day coach. No transferring of any thing, in fact, as "every thing goes" through without change. The equipment in use on the O. &. M. is of the

All cars are vestibuled-the baggage car and day coaches as well as the sleepers, which are of the latest Pullman pattern. A special feature of the fast day train which makes the run each way between Cincinnati and St. Louis in less than ten hours, is the elegant Pulman Buffer

Thus equipped the perfection of railway travel seems to have been attained.

The O. &. M. is also the leading route to Louis ville, running three daily trains and connecting with direct lines for Memphis, New Orleans, etc. Passengers for any point West, Northwest or Southwest should procure tickets via the Ohio & Mississippi Railway for sale at all offices of connecting lines.
